

Mr. Wegener

- I didn't learn anything in your class.
- Art was too loose. I didn't like choices or having to grade my own work.
- Your music sucks.
- I hated your device policy. Students should be free to do as they please.
- I didn't think your grading system was fair. I wanted an "A."
- Students should be allowed to work on their art at home instead of in class without losing points.
- I didn't think you gave students enough choices with the assignments.
- Your grading is weird. 50% Fs made it look like I failed assignments, when I just didn't do them. You should just use 0% Fs like other teachers.
- I didn't like it when you worked on your own art projects in class.
- My mom complained that you send out too many emails.
- You grade stuff too fast and send too many progress reports.
- I didn't like getting stuff back without a grade on it – just comments.
- Your deadlines without penalties made me procrastinate. You should have harder deadlines with penalties, so students don't waste time.
- Your room's too big. It's hard to hear with music and movies playing.
- I didn't like having to pay a course fee, when I didn't do anything.
- I didn't like having to show my art to people. I only make art for me.
- You never helped me.
- It wasn't fair to let students choose their own assignments. Everyone should be required to do the same exact thing.
- Your class doesn't even count as a core subject, so why have grades?
- B-Building is where the real teaching takes place.
- Your gradebook and progress reports indicate you don't like students.
- My child liked art before taking your class.
- Thanks to your class, I now hate art.
